Peter the Great

Peter the Great or Peter the 1st was one of the most famous tsars in the Russian history. Although he was often unkind, he changed his country's future forever.

Peter was unique in many ways. He was very tall and very handsome. He had a lot of energy and great physical strength. Peter sometimes had bad manners, but he was very bright and he wanted to learn about everything. Every day he added to his knowledge and learned skills. He loved to play games of war and also liked ships and sailing. He enjoyed hard work and building things with his hands.

Peter was also quite modest. He liked to dress in old, simple clothing. He had a huge appetite, but liked to eat simple food such as bread, cabbage soup, and cold meat. Peter hated formal occasions and official behaviour.

In those days, there were great changes in European culture, science, and education. A group of Europeans worked in Russia. Peter knew many of them and often followed their advice. Several of these Europeans were his closest friends. However, the noblemen in Russia did not want any changes. They didn't want foreigners in their country.

Peter wanted Russia to be as great as other European countries. He decided to go to Europe to learn everything he could. However, he did not want to travel as the leader of a country. He wanted to be free to study and learn. So he took a large group of men with him and went travelling as a common soldier. It wasn't easy to hide the huge and powerful Tsar of Russia. Nevertheless, Peter's travels were a great success. His dream was to create a powerful Russian navy, so he had to learn shipbuilding. He worked in shipyards in Holland and England. After returning from his trip he built first ships in Russia.
